Overview

This 2.5-day CME-certified symposium provides an in-depth look at the fields of Palliative Medicine and Supportive Oncology.

It will enable attendees to analyze and improve their patient treatment strategies from both micro and macro treatment management levels. Utilizing research data, case studies, parallel workshops, group discussions, and an audience response system, national and international experts will challenge the audience to explore new options with the goal of improving patient outcomes.

Key topics addressed include:

- Cancer pain and complications
- Chemotherapy and chemotherapy induced emesis
- Parenteral nutrition
- Cancer-related fatigue and dyspnea
- Supportive care in lung cancer
- Neuropathic pain
- Mobile technology and clinical monitoring

This symposium is an excellent opportunity for palliative care and supportive oncology experts to probe the intellectual depths of modern clinical research and practice with renown national and international experts.

Target Audience

This activity is intended for an international audience of physicians, physician assistants, nurses, social workers, pharmacists, and other health care providers involved with palliative care and supportive oncology. In addition, health care professionals in hematology/oncology, internal medicine, family practice, and hospice care will benefit from the presentations.

Objectives

After completing this activity, the participant will be able to do the following:

- Describe current management strategies for palliative care;
- Compare and contrast complications and comorbidities associated with symptom control;
- Discuss current issues regarding psychosocial care in palliative care patients, especially the psychological, behavioral, and social factors that may influence the disease process;
- Describe the challenges involved in palliative medicine for oncology patients, including managing toxicities associated with chemotherapy;
- Design a multidisciplinary pain assessment and management plan.

Key Largo

Key Largo, called "the first of the Florida Keys," because of its northernmost location along the Florida Keys chain, is an hour's drive from South Florida's two major airports. Yet it is a world away. Home to two state parks, a national park, a national marine sanctuary, Key Largo boasts some of the most fascinating botanical scenery in the state.

In 2010, John Pennekamp Coral Reef State Park, America's first underseas park, turned 50. And, the year 2010 marked the 75th year of the Florida Park Service.

You can also explore Key Largo's Dagny Johnson Key Largo Hammock Botanical State Park, Everglades National Park and all the underwater delights of the Florida Keys National Marine Sanctuary. A host of eco-tourism and dive-snorkel services and accommodations are ready to help you discover the natural wonders of Key Largo.

This island at the top of the Florida Keys island chain boasts natural wonders plus friendly locals who are ready to help you enjoy them. You can arrange an eco-tour, float on a parasail, thrill yourself on a jet ski, or relax on a sunset sail or sightseeing tour. When you're done, you can unwind at one of the parks or beaches or stroll through a local art gallery.

While at Palliative Medicine and Supportive Oncology 2012....

The nearby South Beach, Miami (approx. 1 hour away), plays host to the FOOD NETWORK's South Beach Wine & Food Festival (Feb 23-26, 2012). The Food Network South Beach Wine & Food Festival presented by Food & Wine is a national, star-studded, four-day destination event showcasing the talents of the world's most renowned wine and spirits producers, chefs and culinary personalities.

So after the day's educational activities have finished you can let the culinary delights begin.
