Advancing Therapeutics for Multiple Sclerosis
Medical Education Conference

Saturday, December 9, 2017
Chairman’s Auditorium, UnitedHealthcare® Campus
Las Vegas, NV
www.ccfcme.org/ATMS17
Target Audience
This activity is intended for neurologists, primary care physicians, psychiatrists, psychologists, physician assistants, nurse practitioners, nurses, social workers, physical and occupational therapists and other allied health professionals who care for patients with multiple sclerosis.

Program Description
This CME activity aims to provide an overview of multiple sclerosis (MS), from diagnosis to emerging therapies and strategies for individualizing treatments for MS patients. MS is primarily managed by neurologists, but as the gatekeepers to health care, Primary Care Providers should be updated on symptoms, diagnostic options, and disease modifying therapies. It is also important to coordinate care with additional members of the health care team including specialists in psychology and psychiatry, social work, nursing, physical and occupational therapy, and other allied health professionals who have a role in delivering quality care. Facilitating the coordination and continuity of care with a diverse team of medical professionals offers MS patients and families comprehensive care designed to improve patient outcomes.

Goals and Objectives
Upon completion of this program, the participant will be able to:
1. Differentiate and verify multiple sclerosis (MS) symptoms and diagnoses from MS mimics;
2. Determine best practices for individualized treatments for MS patients using disease modifying therapies;
3. Identify emerging therapies for MS;
4. Propose general medical management strategies for MS patients;
5. Recommend rehabilitation and wellness strategies for MS patients.
